The Sustainability Award

By Nobel Sustainability Trust Foundation

Nobel Sustainability Trust Foundation (NST) encourages the research, development, action, and implementation of sustainable solutions. The NST aims to contribute to the following fields:

- Climate change with emphasis on reduction of global warming
- Advances in clean and renewable technologies and policies
- A pollution-free, life-sustaining environment
- Inspiration for present and future generations

To promote the activities described above, a key component is the Sustainability Award. These awards, given annually, will form an accolade for those who make outstanding contributions to sustainability. The winners will be presented with the awards at a dinner held in connection with a symposium, organized by the NST, in major cities around the world. The award themes for The Sustainability Award 2022-2023 are

Leadership in implementation

Outstanding research and development in the field of Energy

Outstanding research and development in the field of Water

Winners will receive cash award, certificate, and medal.

Minimum cash award for Leadership in implementation 300,000 SEK

Minimum cash award for Outstanding research & development in the field of Energy 500,000 SEK

Minimum cash award for Outstanding research & development in the field of Water 500,000 SEK

The Award Coordinating University (ACU) Technical University Munich (TUM) in consultation with NST, will form the Award Committee that reflects the requisite competence for the Sustainability Award. This Award Committee will have the final say in the selection of the award winners in above categories.

Award nominations and proposals can be submitted at NST website

<https://www.nobelsustainability.org> from 1st of September 2022 to 31st of January 2023. More details regarding The Sustainability Award proposal guidelines and the proposal front page form can be found at NST website.

The Sustainability Award Ceremony 2023 will be held in Munich in the early November 2023. Ceremony guests will receive invitation letter from NST in the beginning of 2023.
